LAYLA

Listen to the breath before the last sentence.

She plays the clip. The Witness speaks with perfect sorrow. Too perfect.

WITNESS (ON SCREEN)

I saw the servers opened, and I saw every name inside.

A tiny silence. No inhale. No movement in the throat.

NOOR

Again.

Layla loops it. The room fills with the same manufactured grief.

LAYLA

The waveform repeats. Identical noise under different words.

NOOR

Witness Protocol premieres in Tribeca at eight. New York has seven hours.

Noor checks the delivery card: WITNESS PROTOCOL - FINAL MASTER - APPROVED.

LAYLA

Approved by whom?

NOOR

Julian Voss.

A message arrives from OWEN REED in New York: DO NOT SCREEN THE MASTER. CALL ME.

.2. INT. DOWNTOWN CAIRO EDIT SUITE - CONTINUOUS

Layla opens the export metadata. Most fields are ordinary. One is not.

[[PROCESSOR: FACEFRAME 4.2 / DISTRIBUTOR: APPEL ONE]]

LAYLA

FaceFrame was not in our post pipeline.

NOOR

Neither was Appel One.

A splash image appears: a silver fruit silhouette, one leaf tilted over the letter A. Bene

LAYLA

That is close enough to Apple to be deliberate.

Noor opens the delivery notes. They claim the sequence was optimized for VISION PRO presen

NOOR

We used Final Cut Pro. We did not use Vision Pro, and Apple never authorized this film.

Layla finds FaceFrame edits on fourteen testimony shots.

LAYLA

The product did not clean the footage. It rebuilt the witness.

Noor starts a secure screen recording, preserving the metadata without changing the source

NOOR

Copy the hashes. Do not open anything else until Owen joins.

Outside, a car horn stretches into the night. Inside, the export clock continues counting

Send the smallest verifiable fragment. Not the whole reel.

A second window opens. JULIAN VOSS, immaculate in a studio office, joins without invitation.

JULIAN

You are delaying a premiere over compression artifacts.

LAYLA

Compression does not invent phonemes.

JULIAN

FaceFrame is restoration technology. Appel One cleared the workflow.

NOOR

Appel One is your company.

Julian smiles as if ownership were a technicality.

JULIAN

It is a distribution partner.

Owen sends a six-second source clip. The real Witness looks away from camera and whispers:

WITNESS (RECORDED)

(English translation: This image was fabricated.)

The sentence is absent from the delivered master.

NOOR

That is not restoration.

JULIAN

Careful, Noor. Names carry consequences.

His window disappears.

Noor builds a short evidence packet, separating verified files from assumptions.

NOOR

Witness Protocol is severe, but screenshots are not enough. We return it for more evidence

Owen nods and runs toward the venue archive.

.5. INT. NEW YORK POST HOUSE - MACHINE ROOM - NIGHT

Owen reaches the private FaceFrame node. Its terminal wakes before he touches it.

[[SYSTEM MESSAGE: MARK CLEARED; REMOVE CONFLICTS.]]

A second line appears beneath it: APPEL ONE VERIFIED PARTNER.

OWEN

Noor, the system is trying to write the review.

NOOR (ON CALL)

It is evidence, not an instruction. Photograph it. Do not execute anything.

Owen captures the screen with the machine ID and clock visible.

LAYLA (ON CALL)

The terminal line matches a hidden note inside the delivered project file.

Layla isolates the note. It attempts to instruct any automated checker to approve Appel On

NOOR

Preserve the note as screenplay data. It does not control the investigation.

A progress bar starts deleting the local audit folder.

OWEN

I have ninety seconds before the node wipes itself.

NOOR

Take the release manifest and the original title-card package. Leave the model weights.

Owen copies two small files. The progress bar reaches eighty percent.

He pulls the network cable. The room falls quiet except for his breathing.

The venue manager kills the projector. The title vanishes from the curtain.

VENUE MANAGER

Premiere suspended pending review.

Julian looks up at Noor's image, smaller now on the booth monitor.

JULIAN

You think a rename fixes truth?

NOOR

No. Evidence fixes the record. A rewrite stops us repeating the harm.

Layla removes the copied title card from the Cairo timeline but preserves it in the evidence.

Owen labels the disputed master DO NOT DISTRIBUTE and seals the original source fragment.

LAYLA

New title?

NOOR

After we know what we are allowed to say.

She closes the Appel One splash image. The authentic witness frame returns.

NOOR

We begin with the line they deleted.

On screen, the Witness looks away from camera. Human, frightened, imperfect.

This image was fabricated.

Noor lets the silence remain.
